

South Carolina Historical Magazine

1994 Volume 95

CONTENTS:

ARTICLES:

Maxcy Gregg and his Brigade of South Carolinians at the Battle of Fredericksburg by Clay Ouzts	6
Community Evolution and Race Relations in Reconstruction Charleston, South Carolina by Bernard E. Powers, Jr.	27
A Comment on "The Slave Trade to Colonial South Carolina: A Profile" by Walter Minchinton	47
More Presbyterian Ecclesiastical Names and Places by Joseph B. Martin III	58
South Carolina and The Gentleman's Magazine by Marion B. Smith	102
"Brother Against Brother": Alexander and James Campbell's Civil War by J. Tracy Power	130
"All Is Not Quiet in Our Hellish County": Facts, Fiction, Politics, and Race - The Ellenton Riot of 1876 by Mark M. Smith	142
"The Situation Has Been Badly Fumbled": South Carolina's Response to Gas Rationing During World War II by Tom Downey	156
The Tale of Two Entrepreneurs in the Old South: John Springs III and Hiram Hutchinson of the South Carolina Upcountry by Lacy K. Ford	198
Roswell Sabin Ripley: "Charleston's Gallant Defender" by C. A. Bennett	225
Jumping on the Bandwagon: The Equal-Pay-for-Equal-Work Controversy at Winthrop College, 1915-1920 by John W. Hancock	243
Daniel Axtell's Account Book and the Economy of Early South Carolina by Alexander Moore	280
Pryce Hughes, Colony Planner, of Charles Town and Wales by Eirlys M. Barker	302
The General as President: Charles P. Summerall and Mark W. Clark as Presidents of The Citadel by W. Gary Nichols	314

BOOK REVIEWS AND NOTES

70, 177, 266, 336

RECENT MANUSCRIPT ACCESSIONS

66, 172, 264

MEMORIALS

96, 176, 265, 368

FROM THE ARCHIVES:

"A Case of Mistaken Identity," by Patrick McCawley

64

INDEX FOR VOLUME 94

349